

Tamagawa Sky Bridge opens

The Tamagawa Sky Bridge was officially opened on 12 March 2022. The downstream of the Tama River runs along the prefectural border between Tokyo and Kanagawa Prefecture, and Haneda Airport (Ota Ward, Tokyo), which can be said to be the gateway to the world, and KING SKYFRONT (Kawasaki, Kanagawa Prefecture), which aims to become one of the world's most advanced life science hubs is located on both banks. Using the 675-meter bridge it is now possible to walk between the two areas in about 15 minutes, greatly improving mobility and convenience. The bridge is expected to enhance the exchange of people, goods, information, and businesses, and will greatly contribute to the strengthening of Japan's international connectivity and sustainable development of its economy.

The opening was commemorated by a symposium held by Kawasaki City, Kawasaki Institute of Industrial Promotion, Ota city, and Ota City Industrial Promotion Organization. Experts and business people active in both areas discussed the attractiveness of the areas and the possibility of developing as one of the world's most advanced business areas, and deepened their understanding in a panel discussion. In addition, congratulatory messages were received from overseas (Embassy of Switzerland, BIO-M, etc.), giving the symposium a rich international flavor.
